

FROM THE COUNTRY HEAD'S DESK

August has been nothing short of extraordinary at Richmond Institute. This month, we celebrated our nation, our students, our creativity, and perhaps most importantly, a major new chapter in our academic journey. From the celebration of Independence Day to the inauguration of Richmond Institute of Higher Education, August has reminded us that growth is not just about moving forward — it is about creating opportunities for others to move forward with us.

The inauguration of RIHE, affiliated with UAF, marks a significant milestone in Richmond Institute's journey into higher education. Our MoU signing with Xiamen Nanyang University, China, further strengthens our commitment to building meaningful international academic connections.

And because education should never be all work and no play, August also brought us Qawwali, photography, fashion, creativity, and plenty of unforgettable moments. It has been a big month.

And honestly? We are only getting started.
Stay connected. Stay inspired. Stay ready for what comes next.

EDITOR'S NOTE

If June was about anticipation, August was about making things happen.

This month, Richmond Institute had one of those moments where you look around and think, okay, this is getting serious.

We celebrated Pakistan's Independence Day, officially stepped into a new higher education chapter with the inauguration of RIHE, welcomed an exciting international academic connection with Xiamen Nanyang University, and somehow still found time for Qawwali, photography, fashion, and everything in between.

As your editor, I have spent the month trying to capture all of it: the announcements, the celebrations, the achievements, the people, the energy... and yes, the endless content that somehow keeps multiplying. :)

But that is the best kind of busy.
Because August wasn't simply another month at Richmond Institute. It was a month that gave us something to celebrate — and something even bigger to look forward to.

Monthly Highlights

Independence Day Celebration 2026

Richmond Institute proudly celebrated Independence Day on 14th August 2026, bringing students and staff together to celebrate patriotism, unity, national pride, and our shared responsibility towards the future of Pakistan. The celebration was a reminder that education is not only about building careers — it is also about developing responsible, confident, and socially conscious citizens. A day of pride, reflection, and celebration. Pakistan Zindabad!

A New Chapter Begins: RIHE Inauguration & MoU Signing

27th August 2026 marked a historic milestone for Richmond Institute with the inauguration of Richmond Institute of Higher Education (RIHE), affiliated with UAF. The occasion represented a major step forward in our commitment to higher education and academic excellence. Adding an international dimension to this milestone, Richmond Institute also proudly signed an MoU with Xiamen Nanyang University, China, opening the door to stronger academic collaboration and international opportunities. From professional education to higher education — the Richmond journey continues to grow.

Qawwali Night Featuring Tahseen Sakina

What happens when Richmond gets the mic, the lights, and some incredible Qawwali? You get a night to remember. On 27th August 2026, Richmond Institute hosted a memorable Qawwali Night featuring Tahseen Sakina. The soulful performance brought students and guests together for an evening filled with traditional Qawwali, music, energy, and unforgettable moments. Because sometimes the best campus memories happen after the books are closed.

Richmond Photography Exhibition

Creativity took centre stage on 27th August 2026 as Richmond Institute hosted its Photography Exhibition. The exhibition provided students and participants with a platform to showcase their photography skills, artistic vision, creativity, and unique perspectives. Every photograph had a story. And every photographer had a different way of telling it.

Richmond Fashion Walk 2026

Confidence. Creativity. Style.

The Richmond Fashion Walk 2026, held on 27th August 2026, brought all three together. Students and participants took the spotlight as they showcased their individuality, fashion sense, confidence, and creativity. It was more than a fashion walk — it was a celebration of personality, expression, and talent. And yes, Richmond definitely understood the assignment. ;)

What's Trending in Careers

Skills + Qualifications = The New Advantage

The modern career landscape is changing quickly. Employers are looking for more than just qualifications. Communication, digital skills, adaptability, creativity, leadership, and industry awareness are becoming increasingly important.

That is why the strongest career path is not simply about getting a degree or completing a course. It is about building a combination of knowledge, skills, experience, and confidence.

The question is no longer:

What qualification do I need?

It is:

What kind of professional do I want to become? Start building that person today.

August was more than a busy month. It was a milestone.

From celebrating where we come from to building where we are going,

Richmond Institute continues to grow with its students, its people, and its vision.

The next chapter has officially begun.

Stay alert. Stay involved. Stay inspired.

Because at Richmond Institute, the best chapters are still being written.
